

P.L 8400205

From: "Andrea Weyant" <katnose@optonline.net>
To: <wvogl@samhsa.gov>
Date: 7/12/04 11:33AM
Subject: drug testing

As a person with paruresis (someone who can't urinate on demand or in public restrooms and other various situations), providing a urine specimen can be ultimately impossible. The muscles just won't relax for urination to take place. Please realize that mandatory urine testing is discriminatory towards people with this most frustrating and uncomfortable problem. It's not that we WON'T do urine testing, but that we often just CAN'T.

Other forms of drug testing are not only possible but should be made optional for those of us to cannot pee on demand.

Sincerely,
Andrea Weyant
Paruresis sufferer